School Market
Volunteer Recruitment

Sometimes, you may need extra help to assist with food drives or supporting your School Market. Recruiting volunteers from your local community can bring the necessary assistance you need. Here are a few tips to recruiting local volunteers for your program!

Collaborate with local Food Bank Partners

Partners of the food bank can be a vital resource in finding dedicated people to help. Visit https://sharefoodbringhope.org/programs/food-locator to find other food assistance organizations partnered with The Food Bank near you!

Engage other local nonprofits/volunteer groups

Outside of Food Bank partners, many areas have optimist clubs, church groups and other community groups that are looking to get involved. Making connections with these groups can help foster future volunteer partnerships.

Post to social media

Engaging your own school community through Instagram, Facebook or other social platforms can help reach potential volunteers connected to your school community. Volunteer platforms like VolunteerMatch can be a great place to engage potential volunteers as well!
